

A.K.M. Nazrul Haider

Senior Advisor

icddr,b (International Center for Diarrhoeal Disease Research, Bangladesh)

nhaider@icddr.org

01711539997

AKM Nazrul Haider has over 30 years of work experience in building and leading successful IT projects in the area of aviation, manufacturing, education, research and healthcare industry. He is a recognized leader in the area of developing plans for business systems automation through management of technology in diversified environment.

Nazrul Haider is now Senior Advisor to icddr,b an international health research organization located at Dhaka which translate research into treatment, training and policy advocacy for most critical health concerns currently facing the world.

Prior to joining icddr,b he worked for Apollo Hospitals Dhaka as General Manager – IT and spearheaded the implementation of comprehensive EMR for both patient clinical records and images in terms of HIS, RIS and PACS. He was also Business Systems Manager and IT Manager for Unilever Bangladesh for 15 years which includes 2 years overseas placement for handling diversified IT applications.

Nazrul Haider is alma mater of Asian Institute of Technology and completed Master of Computer Science with specialization in information security and geo-informatics.